

AgJunction and Fastline Media Group Partner at the Farm Science Review to Showcase Revolutionary New Wheelman

Wheelman delivers a simple, do-it-yourself autosteering system for under $3500

HIAWATHA, KS, September 18, 2018 — AgJunction Inc. (TSX: AJX), the Autosteering Company™, and Fastline Media Group (Fastline) are partnering at the Farm Science Review 2018 to showcase Wheelman™, AgJunction's new product that allows farmers to automatically and accurately steer farm equipment at a price that generates a payback in just one season, working as few as 250 acres. The USDA estimates that autosteering alone saves farmers $15 per acre each year.

“We are excited to partner with Fastline at the Farm Science Review to showcase AgJunction's revolutionary new Wheelman autosteering product, bringing Precision Ag, the technology used by the largest farm operations, within reach of millions of smaller farms,” said Dave Vaughn, AgJunction president and CEO. “And we're looking forward to demonstrating the simple, do-it-yourself installation of Wheelman on a 1974 John Deere purchased from the Fastline.com agriculture equipment site.”

Stop by the Fastline building (982 Wool Ave) at the Farm Science Review and learn the benefits of Wheelman. Also, take the opportunity to get hands-on with Wheelman, by performing a do-it-yourself installation on the 1974 John Deere 100 HP PTO tractor.

You can enter to win the 1974 John Deere 100 HP PTO tractor outfitted with a Wheelman powered by Whirl™ autosteering system, in-person at the Fastline building.

Visit HandsFreeFarm.com now to learn more about the revolutionary new Wheelman™ and how to qualify for a limited time price of $3,495 before October 1st, 2018.
